LAWRENCE, June 29, '59 G. W. BROWN-DEAR SIR :- Since oh. taining an advance copy of the laws of contents of the book, and find that there is now no Probate Court in Kansan, since bate Courts, and defining its jurisdiction has been no law passed on that subject ness proper, was not transacted by a Christian, or Ecclesiastical Courts, and they were not governed by the rules of the common law, but the canon or civil law of Rome, See Blackstone's conthat governed them. Probate Courts exercise the same functions in this corn try that the ordinary does in England, so hat our Legislature, not having adopted the Canon of civil law of Rome, we have no Probate Courts in Kansas.

Another change I notice in the crimi nal code, sect. 177, page 208. Whether it will promote the ends of justice or not I am unable to determine; but it is at least an infringement on the old rules of the common law. That barbarous code, gave a prisoner on trial for a felony, thirty-five peremptory challenges, while the king had none at common law; the present English law gives the prisoner twenty-four peremptory challenges in case of murder, and nearly every State in the Union gives a prisoner from twenty to twenty four challenges in all capital cases, and confines the State to three or four challenges; in all civilized countries, the prisoner has five challenges to the prosecutor's one .-In progressive Kansas, the ratio is two to the Territory six, so that hereafter a poor devil will have a hard chance for his life
